Trestle Suits Are Settled

Pittsburgh Steel Pays $37,000 in Accident Which Killed Five Men

The Pittsburgh Steel Co. today settled out of court two damage suits which resulted from a trestle collapse which killed five men in the Monessen plant June 29, 1953.

In compromises approved by Judge Harry M. Montgomery of Allegheny County common pleas court, the company agreed to pay $25,000 to the estate of Francis L. Cowell, formerly of Coal Center R. D., and $12,000 to the estate of Stephen Maczura, formerly of Monessen.

Cowell, who was 31 at the time of the accident, was killed outright when the trestle, under which he and several other employes were eating their lunch, collapsed.

Maczura, then 68, died of burns the following day in Charleroi-Monessen Hospital.

Others Killed

The three other employes who lost their lives in the disaster were Adoardo E. Arrigoni, then 62, of North Charleroi; James (Archie) McCoy, then 26, of Monessen, and Celeste Tretter, then 67, of Monessen.

Five other men were injured when the trestle gave way under the weight of four hopper cars. The structure was located in the open hearth department.

Monessen Southwestern Railway, a Pittsburgh Steel subsidiary, was a co-defendant with the parent company in the civil actions.

Attorneys for the plaintiffs told the court that the Monessen Southwestern had been aware for some time prior to the accident of the "insufficient and insecure" condition of the trestle yet had continued the practice of "overloading" it.

'Steel Is Decayed'

"The plaintiff has offered to prove," the court was told "that examination of the supports of the bins following this collapse showed the steel to be pitted and decayed, that a certain painter gang had refushed to repaint the structure on account of its shaky condition, and by an expert civil engineer that the supports for the structure were entirely insufficient for the weight of the load."

The plaintiffs' petitions pointed out that the trestle was orginally constructed in 1915 but that the capacity of the open hearths had been tripled since that time while "the physical capacity of the trestle and bins remained the same, to the knowledge of the defendants".

The Cowell and Maczura estates were represented by Suto & Schuchert and Marvin D. Power, successors to Margiotti & Casey, which took the cases originally. Attorney Charles J. Margiotti died several months ago.

The petitions indicated that the attorneys were employed on "contingency fee" contracts and will receive 40 per cent of the sums to be paid to the plaintiffs.

The local Chamber and various Monessen thrift organizations, sponsors of the contest here, presented Miss Duda with a $100 savings bond. She was also presented a citation from the Monessen School District. Hagerstrand made both presentations.

Salk to Test New Method of Giving Vaccine

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Dr. Jonas A. Salk will test a needle-less method of administering the anti-polio vaccine he developed during mass inoculations for University of Pittsburgh students this week.

About 75 volunteers from the School of Engineering will receive inoculations Thursday by means of a high-pressure, high speed jet vaccinator developed by the Army.

An equal number will receive the usual hypodermic needle vaccinations. Later, tests will be made on the two groups to test the effectiveness of the jet inoculations.

The tests will be conducted simultaneously with a drive to inoculate 25,000 full-time and part-time students, and members of the Pitt faculty and staff and their families.

Beginning Wednesday and continuing through March 2, a giant clinic will be set up in the Commons Room of the Cathedral of Learning. Three teams will administer vaccine to eligible persons at the rate of 600 an hour.

The incident was the only report on the police docket for the weekend.

Loitering in front of business establishments in groups must be stopped immediately, Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka said today.

The chief said he has received numerous complaints from owners of the stores and also pedestrians about "gang loafing."

Police, Kuvinka said, have been instructed to make an all-out drive against the loafing.

Arrests will be made if necessary, he declared.

McKeesport Man Is Tortured by 'Sadists'; $10,000 Loot Stolen

McKEESPORT, Pa. (UP) — Police today sought four gunmen, led by a "sadist," who turned the home of a local meat packer into a medieval-like torture chamber to learn the whereabouts of hidden money and jewelry.

The gang manacled Frank Rendulic, 40, to a cellar post with handcuffs and chains, then beat him with blackjacks and burned him with a heated meat hook to make him tell where his money was hidden.

Rendulic finally gave in, three hours after the torture started, when the gang threatened to burn out the eyes of his four children with a heated poker. Earlier, a similar eye-gouging threat failed to break Rendulic's silence.

Get $10,000 Loot

The robbers got away with about $5,000 in cash and $5,000 worth of jewelry. They left Rendulic's back, legs and face a mass of bruises. His right eye was swollen shut.

Rendulic's terrified wife, Josephine, 39, and the couple's two sons and two daughters were left bound and gagged in an upstairs bedroom but were not harmed otherwise. Mrs. Rendulic freed herself after the men left and called police.

Rendulic, who operates a slaughter house behind his home, said he and his wife were watching television Saturday night when their doorbell rang. He answered it and four men pushed their way in.

"Three had socks pulled over their faces and the fourth had on a white mask. Each one had a gun," Rendulic said. "I thought right away it was some of my friends playing a gag."

Chained To Post

Three of the men forced him into the cellar while the fourth ordered his wife upstairs where their two sons, Fred, 5, and Frank, 8, were in bed.

The couple's daughters, Joan, 13, and Janet, 11, returned shortly from a skating rink and also were taken to the bedroom.

In the cellar, the three gunmen handcuffed Rendulic's arms around a steel post and chained his legs. Then they took turns beating him with blackjacks and singeing his skin with a heated meat hook.

"You'd better tell where the money is. This guy's a sadist," one thug said, pointing to a man who acted as leader.

He said about $1,000 of the money taken by the men belonged to his children, who had held a lucky number in a church lottery.

Fayette Youth Clocked Doing 110 on Route 51

A Perryopolis young man was arrested early yesterday after his car "was clocked doing 110 miles per hour" on Route 51 by Perryopolis Police Chief Stewart Stickle.

Arthur Dziedzcki, 20, was spotted by Stickle shortly before midnight Saturday while reportedly speeding on the wide highway near Perryopolis.

Unable to catch him, Stickle recognized the auto and notified Assistant County Detective Peter Rebottini and John Lesho, Perry Township police chief.

When apprehended at his home near Spillway, Dziedzcki reportedly resisted arrest.

At a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace George Wilson, of Star Junction, Stickle testified the motorist "was doing 110 miles per hour in the fog."

Dziedzcki, who was charged with reckless driving, speeding and resisting arrest, was committed to Fayette County jail in default of $300 bond. He is scheduled for a hearing before Justice Wilson later this week.

Dziedzcki, police said, previously had been arrested on speeding charges on two different occasions. He is employed in Ohio.

End to Long Phone Dispute In Sight Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP)—An end to the seven month dispute between the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co., and Communications Workers of America was in sight today.

Both sides were studying a tentative agreement reached here Sunday after a 26-hour negotiating session. Terms of the agreement were not released.

Union members of three southern Ohio CWA locals are expected to vote on ratification of the contract Tuesday.

The strike affected a 24-county area in southern and southeastern Ohio and centered in Portsmouth.

The walkout, which began last July 15, curtailed telephone service to almost 60,000 mainly because of violence and cable cuttings in the Ohio River town.

Sunday, a company spokesman said bargaining teams had agreed on a "new labor agreement" and "on terms and provisions of a strike termination agreement."

Should the union vote final agreement, formal signing of the contract will take place Wednesday.

Portsmouth was hardest hit by the 225-day strike. At times, the entire town was without telephone service.

Three persons were taken to Brownsville General Hospital yesterday afternoon with injuries suffered in a one-car accident in Vestaburg.

Guy Mollet

French Premier Mollet in U. S. For Conferences

NEW YORK (UP)—French Premier Guy Mollet arrived in New York today enroute to Washington for conferences with President Eisenhower on the Middle East crisis, European unity, and the weakened North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The Eisenhower - Mollet talks start a round robin series of "summit" conferences among the Big Three chiefs of state on the breach in the Western alliance.

The two days of conferences between Mollet and President Eisenhower will be the first top-level contact between Mr. Eisenhower and the major European allies since the Anglo-French invasion of Egypt strained their relations last November.

Before boarding an Air France Constellation in Paris Sunday night, Mollet said he planned to discuss "chief world political problems" with the President.

Young District Girls Found Safe in Woods

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UP)—Three young girls, missing since they left for church Sunday morning, were found safe today about five miles from their homes here.

The girls, Linda Long, 11, Madeline Ramey, 12, and Patricia Phillips, 12, all of Washington, were found in a wooded area along the Baltimore & Ohio railroad tracks. They told police that they had spent the night in the woods.

Mrs. Kathleen Boyle, who lived near the wooded area, said she saw the girls walking along the railroad tracks yesterday. She said when she saw a television program today telling of the missing girls she decided to notify police.

The girls, who had blankets and food with them, were cold and somewhat damp after spending the night in the woods. They were glad to get home, however, since New Mexico, where they were believed to have been headed, "was a little too far."

A nationwide alert had been broadcast over police teletypes for the three girls at 2:30 a.m. EST today.

USW Official Count Begins

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The official tabulation of votes cast in the Feb. 12 United Steelworkers election opened here today with completion of the count expected to take several weeks.

Chief interest is in David J. McDonald's bid for election to his second term as president. Unofficial returns gave him a lead of nearly 2 to 1 over Donald C. Rarick, McKeesport, who was backed by an anti-McDonald faction.

The count of votes is being made by the Honest Ballot Assn., under supervision of a three-man board of tellers. Under USW regulations, the tellers must complete the tally and send the results to each local union not later than May 1.

Marine Corps Trial Opens

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (UP) — S-Sgt. William E. Rich, of Manchester, Conn., one of four drill instructors accused of abusing recruits at this Marine Corps training center, goes on trial today.

Capt. James F. Mahoney, base public information officer, said Rich will be given a special court martial trial that will be opened to newsmen and the public.

Rich was accused of striking five recruits with his hand during a wave of alleged abuses that has been under investigation since shortly before Christmas.

Claims His Doctrine Will Bring Stability To Troubled Areas

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower warned the people of the Middle East today to stand clear of the "menace of international Communism" lest it "smash all their hard-won accomplishments overnight."

Mr. Eisenhower reiterated in a special shortwave broadcast beamed overseas that his Mid-east resolution, now pending in Congress, is designed "to help bring stability" to the troubled areas.

"We must face the fact, that, while we are trying to help build a word of freedom and justice among sovereign people," the President said, "the masters of international Communism are working constantly to tear down this kind of world."

The President spoke as U.S. officials voiced hope that the Israeli troop deadlock may be broken.

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban conferred for three hours and 10 minutes Sunday with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles on the issue of withdrawal of Israel's troops from the Gaza Strip and Gulf of Aqaba.

New American Approach

Apparently a new American approach was being worked out to the question of guaranteeing Israel against future Egyptian attacks. Israel also was said to have modified its demands for safeguards before pulling out of Egyptian territory.

After their talk, Dulles and Eban issued a joint statement expressing hope for a "solution . . . consistent with the principles of the United Nations."

The President's speech marked the 15th anniversary of the "Voice of America." It was delivered from UAO's overseas broadcast studios here and was relayed by short wave around the globe.

To Brief President

Dulles was due to meet with President Eisenhower this morning to fill the President in on the latest negotiations for an Israel-Egypt settlement.

The fast-breaking developments indicated some new formula for breaking the crucial Mideast impasse was discussed Sunday and Eban was checking to see if it is acceptable to his government.

A communique said Eban, who flew here from Israel for the conference, had given Dulles the Israeli government's latest position on the troop withdrawal question.

While the communique did not elaborate, Eban said on arriving here the "clarifications and in-

King Saud to Explain Doctrine At Arab Parley

CAIRO (UP)—King Saud of Saudi Arabia undertook today to explain the Eisenhower Doctrine to the leaders of a frankly hostile Syria and a cool and doubting Egypt and Jordan.

He met with leaders of the three nations for talks overshadowed by Washington negotiations between Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Israeli ambassador Abba Eban. Outcome of the Dulles-Eban talks may determine the results here.

Saud sat down with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, President Shukri El-Kuwatly of Syria and King Hussein of Jordan for the second round of their big four talks that were interrupted by Saud's state visit to Washington.

Today's meeting opened in the Koubbeh Palace in suburban Cairo, and followed a state dinner given by Nasser Sunday night.

Four Rostraver Youths Nabbed in Hub Cap Thefts

Four Rostraver Township youths were arrested over the weekend by New Eagle police on larceny charges, New Eagle police reported today.

The youths, police said, were involved in stealing automobile hub caps.

They were given hearings before Justices of the Peace Harry Anders, of New Eagle, and Tom Petrus, of Donora, and ordered to pay costs. They have been released into the custody of their parents for one year.

Chief of Police Pete Dragone, of New Eagle, arrested the quartet after tracing the license number of the car in which they were riding. They were served warrants at their homes.

State Police at Belle Vernon assisted in the case.

'Singing Boys' to Give Concert Here Thursday

Several private homes in Monessen and vicinity will be opened this week to welcome more than 30 Norwegian boys, members of the touring "Singing Boys of Norway", which will appear in concert here Thursday night.

The "Singing Boys" will be the third number on the winter series of the Monessen-Belle Vernon Civic Music Association.

The boys are expected to arrive in Monessen late Wednesday afternoon in a chartered bus which is transporting them on a concert tour of the United States. Presently they are visiting several cities in the Middle West.

Wherever possible the boys are housed with private families rather than in hotels and motels.

Mrs. Paul Latkanich, secretary of the Civic Music Association, said she had no trouble arranging for their accommodation here, mostly innthe homes of members of the association.

The group plans to spend two nights in Monessen, leaving here Friday morning for engagements in the South.

Ordinarily, only members of Civic Music are admitted to its programs. An exception is being made in this case, however, and all members of households which are entertaining the little Norwegians will be the guests of Civic Music at the Thursday evening concert.

The "Singing Boys" are now making their second tour of America, following an outstanding success in 1952.

The choir was first organized in 1927 by the present director, Ragn-

Thousands Vaccinated In County Saturday

Many thousands of Westmoreland County residents, children and adults alike, took advantage of the "polio day" program sponsored by the County Medical Society Saturday.

In Monessen alone, it is estimated that some 3,000 persons received anti-polio inoculations. Monessen's 11 registered physicians averaged about 300 "shots" each during the six-hour period from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Physicians in North Belle Vernon reported about the same average.

Doctors administered vaccine free of charge to all pre-school and school children up to the age of 20.

The vaccine for adults was $3 per shot. However, there was no charge for those who said they were unable to pay the fee.

The physicians interviewed by The Daily Independent today said there were a "lot of strange faces" among their regular patients. A record of each inoculation is being kept.

The Society has scheduled Saturday, March 23, as the next "polio day" in the county.

It was impossible today to learn the exact number of persons inoculated throughout the county, it was learned, however, that doctors treated about 300 each.

GOP Tax Package Faces House Debate

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Republican-sponsored tax package featuring retention of the 3 per cent sales tax comes up for debate in the House of Representatives today, with both sides predicting easy passage in the final rollcall Tuesday.

House Majority Leader Albert W. Johnson (R-McKean) said he expected the Senate to send it to Gov. George M. Leader's desk within two weeks. If that timetable holds up, he added, the Legislature should be able to wind up its business and adjourn by June 1.

The confidence of the House Republican leadership over smooth sailing for the program is bulwarked by their 126-83 majority in that chamber and a 27-23 edge in the Senate, plus some expected Democratic votes. However some Democratic leaders including House Minority Leader Albert S. Readinger (Berks) contended the tax bills should be held over until legislative hearings are completed on the governor's $1.6-billion budget.

The Republicans figure the tax package, plus reenactment of revenue-raisers now on the books, will give the governor $1.5-billion, or about $100,000,000 below what Leader said he requires.

Amendments inserted in the sales tax bill by the House Ways and Means Committee knock out the proposed stamp plan method of collection and hold the rate at 3 per cent until 1959.

Other phases of the program call for continuation of the 6 per cent corporate net income tax for the next two years, and 5 per cent after that; the 14 mill gross receipts tax on public utilities; the 1 per cent real estate transfer

LOCUST GROVE, Ga. (UP)—Elbert and Betty Seabolt offered an open letter of gratitude today to an unidentified pilot who risked his life to awaken them by buzzing their blazing farm home.

The Seabolts, both 24, their three-month-old son Joseph, and Mrs. Seabolt's father, W. C. Arendale, fled in the nick of time after the plane twice roared low over the four-room house. They said that when the plane awakened them they found the roof ablaze. The house was destroyed.

"Dear Aviator," their letter began. "We want to tell you that your thoughtfulness and daring saved the lives of our whole family Friday night.

"Our loss was tragedy enough for a young couple just getting started, but we never would have even had a chance if you hadn't flown low and waked us up. Thank the Lord there are people like you.

"Sincerely, Elbert and Betty Seabolt."

Seabolt, bread company employe and part-time farmer, said he and his wife "tried everything we know of to find out who the pilot was," but no one could give them any help.

Heavy Traffic Casualties On Spring-like Weekend

Two Lose Lives In Canonsburg, Fayette Crashes

By UNITED PRESS

Spring-like temperatures drew Pennsylvania motorists to the road in record numbers during the weekend, which was marred by a heavy traffic casualty count.

A United Press survey showed at least 12 persons were killed in highway accidents from 6 pm. Friday to Sunday midnight.

The dead included a retired Washington County miner who was a hit-run victim and a Fayette County woman killed when her car was forced off the road by a passing auto.

The fatal accidents:

Canonsburg: Joseph Iannarelli, 63, of Muse, a retired miner, was killed on Route 980 Sunday night when he was struck from the rear by a hit-run automobile traveling on the wrong side of the road. He was struck as he pushed a companion, Angelo Capgi, 62, Muse, to safety.

Uniontown: Mrs. Francis Martinelli, 66, Lemont Furnace, was killed Sunday when a car driven by her husband was forced off Route 119 by a passing auto. The husband, Patsy, 67, was taken to Uniontown Hospital with serious injuries.

Mount Carmel: Walter Brokenshire, 53, and Mrs. Elizabeth Doney, 51, both of Catawissa, were killed Sunday in a three-car collision at Atlas near here. State police said a car driven by Ralph Lancianto, 23, Kulpmont, struck an auto operated by Joseph Nevis, 20, Atlas, then crashed head-on into a car driven by Brokenshire. Lancianto and Nevis suffered multiple injuries and were taken to Shamokin State Hospital.

Pittsburgh: Frank G. Sawko, 27, Duquesne, was injured fatally Sunday when his auto collided with another car at an intersection in West Mifflin, Allegheny County. He died in Homestead Hospital.

Ebensburg: Courtland Lee Zubord, 6, Hollidaysburg, was killed Sunday when a car driven by his father was struck by another auto which went out of control on Route 219 and crossed the medial strip. The driver of the other car was Mrs. Mary Rudliner, 25, Conemaugh.

Ellwood City: Louis Conway Jr., 29, Ellwood City, was killed Saturday when his auto struck a concrete abutment on a bridge here.

Titusville: James Vogan, 16, was injured fatally Saturday night when an automobile in which he was riding crashed into a tree on Old Franklin Hill Road on the outskirts of Titusville. Two other youths, Charles Condon, 18, Titusville, and James Sharp, 17, Pittsfield, Warren County, were brought unconscious to Titusville Hospital.

Saylorsburg: Mrs. Alta Freedman, 60, was killed when a car in which she was riding left Route 115 near here and struck a tree. Her husband, Samuel, head of the Alta Products Corp., was admitted to General Hospital in East Stroudsburg in critical condition.

Harrisburg: Oscar K. Samuelson, 17, Mazuma, Mont., a sailor stationed at Norfolk, Va., died Saturday night in Polyclinic Hospital of injuries suffered in a highway accident at nearby Lemoyne.

York: Edward C. Nace, 79, Spring Grove RD 2, was struck and killed by an automobile as he walked along Route 16 near Hanover Saturday night.

Milton: Donald Pinkerton, 7, of Montgomery, died in Muncy Valley Hospital Sunday night of injuries suffered when he ran into the side of a moving car driven by Franklin Beatty Sr., of Milton.

Proposes Broadening Of Minimum Wage

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell proposed today that the federal minimum wage law be broadened to cover some 2.5 million additional workers.

A Senate Labor subcommittee called Mitchell to give the administration's first concrete proposals on extending the Minimum Wage Act.

Mitchell's proposals fell far short of organized labor's demands that 10 million additional workers be blanketed in under the act.

The bulk of the workers—2 million — to be brought in under Mitchell's proposal are employed in the retail trades profession. Coverage of these workers long has been cherished by labor.

However, Mitchell did not include the coverage of two other groups of workers sought by the AFL-CIO. These were 1.4 million agricultural workers and another 1.4 million outside salesmen.

The labor secretary also ruled on textending the $1 hourly wage floor to workers employed in small, local businesses.

Other congressional news:

Doctrine: The Senate opened its second week of debate today on President Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine with a warning that passage of UN sanctions against Israel would substantially delay the debate. Senate leaders sent the warning to President Eisenhower Sunday after conferring with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Civil Rights: The House Judiciary subcommittee began today what was billed as its "positively final" round of hearings on civil rights legislation. The subcommittee's hearings were extended twice to allow southern opponents of civil rights to present their views. The hearings are slated to end Tuesday.

Racketeering: Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) said his Senate Labor Racketeering Committee is looking into bank records of some unions. He said the committee was making the checks where union financial records were destroyed. Public hearings begin Tuesday.

Bonds: An administration proposal to raise interest rates on government savings bonds appeared headed for trouble. The House Ways & Means Committee scheduled a closed door session on the proposal to allow the Treasury Department to raise rates as high as 4¼ per cent. But key members predicted the committee would allow only a 3½ per cent boost at the most.

Cities League Opposes Bill

MEADVILLE, Pa. (UP)—The Northwestern District of the Pennsylvania League of Cities was on record today opposing the "home rule" legislation sponsored by the state Local Government Commission.

At a weekend meeting here, representatives of Meadville, Titusville, Oil City, Corry, Farrell and Mercer criticized the proposed law as "too cumbersome."

The pending bill would permit residents of third class cities to retain the present commission type of government; to adopt the so-called strong mayor form, or to set up city manager plans.

The delegates contended the proposed law would not end legislative interference in city governments. Representatives of Erie abstained in the vote, because the city council has not taken a position on the bill.

vald Bjarne. At home in Norway the group consists of 100 voices — 75 boy sopranos and altos and 25 young men tenors and basses.

For the American tour, 35 of the best voices have been chosen. They will sing a varied program in seven languages, the numbers ranging from Palestrina and Bach, through the romantic composers to Grieg, contemporary Norwegian folk songs and songs in English.

Each of the boys is a well trained musician. Carefully selected from thousands of candidates, the boys receive a thorough training in Oslo's greatest school. They rehearse three hours a day in addition to their regular school work. The boys must be able to play piano or violin before being accepted for the choir.

The group features several fine soloists, including the 12-year-old Tore Jordfald, whose clear soprano runs easily up to High C.

Much of the program is given in costume. The boys first appear in sailor suits appropriate for their sea-faring country. Then they change to gay national costumes with rich embroideries.

Supreme Court Judge Reed Finishes Career

WASHINGTON (UP)—Stanley F. Reed, a Kentucky doctor's son who scaled the judicial heights and wrote some of the nation's key civil rights decisions, ends a 19-year career on the Supreme Court today.

Reed, a bald, 72, announced his retirement last Jan. 21, "because I am 72 years old" and the strain of his heavy court labors "no longer seems wise."

Appointed to the nation's highest court by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1938, Reed, a Democrat, wrote the historic decision outlawing the South's all-white primary elections and banning segregation in interstate transportation.

A Kentucky lawyer and state legislator before he entered government service, Reed has served on the high court longer than all other present members except Hugo L. Black, who was appointed by Mr. Roosevelt in 1937.

He will retire at a life-time pension of $35,000 a year, his current salary, and hopes to spend much of his time at his farm in Maysville, Ky., where he was born Dec. 31, 1884.

Reed's departure leaves the court's alignment at three Republicans and five Democrats. His retirement gives President Eisenhower his fourth opportunity to make a Supreme Court appointment. No successor has yet been named.

The court, which returned today after a four-week recess, was expected to hand down a heavy volume of decisions including all cases among 45 now under consideration in which Reed has been chosen to speak for the majority.

Several Communist issues have been hanging fire for some time. They include the appeal of 14 California Communists convicted under the Smith Act, and a constitutional test of the Smith Act's membership clause.

The government's giant anti-trust suit against the DuPont and General Motors corporations is also awaiting the court's ruling.

levy, and the five cents per pack cigaret tax.

The Senate was expected to handle only routine matters this week because Republican leaders, including Sen. M. Harvey Taylor (Dauphin), Senate president pro tempore, and floor leaders, Sens. Rowland B. Mahany (Crawford) and Albert R. Pechan (Armstrong) are vacationing in Florida.

Meanwhile, the special Senate-House committee investigating the state Pardons Board activities in the controversial David Darcy case may expand its activities to review the commutation of sentences in a 1954 Erie bribe scandal.

Four More Bodies Taken from Wreckage

SEOUL (UP)—Four more bodies were recoved today from the wreckage of a crashed U.S. Air Force C124 Globemaster, bringing the official death toll to nine in Friday's crash.

Thirteen persons still were missing and presumed dead for a total of 22 dead and missing.

The huge plane crashed Friday night on a Han River sandbar with 159 passengers and crewmen aboard. Two of the 137 survivors were taken off the critical list today at the 121st Evacuation Hospital. The others escaped with minor injuries.

Pope Approves Anesthetics in Easing of Pain

VATICAN CITY (UP) — Pope Pius XII, in a 5,000-word address Sunday to doctors throughout the world, gave broad approval to the use of anesthetics even when their use may shorten the life of a dying person.

The doctors and scientists attended a special audience in the Apostolic Palace and the Pope was answering three questions put to him by the doctors after a congress of anesthetists in Rome last October.

The group had asked the pontiff to lay down the church view on the three questions which dealt with the "religious and moral implications of pain prevention."

On the thorny topic of whether drugs could be used to ease pain in a dying person "even if one foresees that the use of drugs will shorten life," the Pope stressed that all forms of euthanasia — "mercy killing"—are unlawful.

"But if the dying man has fulfilled all his duties and received the last sacraments," the Pope said, "if medical reasons clearly suggest the use of anesthetics, if, in determing the dose, the permitted amount is not exceeded, if the intensity and duration of this treatment is carefully reckoned and the patient consents to it, then there is no objection: the use of anesthetics is morally permissible . . .

"If there exists no direct causal link either through the will of interested parties or by the nature of things, between the induced unconsciousness and the shortening of life . . . the action is lawful."

structions" he had received from his government "should certainly bring about a constructive and fair solution."

Points "Clarified"

In the language of diplomacy, "clarification" can mean a new offer. It is called a clarification so the nation involved will not seem to be backing down.

The joint statement also said Dulles "clarified certain points regarding the attitude and intent of the United States on matters discussed in the United States memorandum of Feb. 11."

It added Eban was "communicating urgently with his government on the content of this conversation and remains in close contact with the Department of State."

This was interpreted as a clear sign the United States had made some new move toward giving Israel assurances against renewed Egyptian attacks on Israeli territory or shipping.

Corning Official Is French Ambassador

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today nominated Amory Houghton, chairman of the board of the Corning (N. Y.) glass works, as new ambassador to France.

The 56-year-old Republican replaces C. Douglas Dillon who last month was named deputy undersecretary of state for economic affairs.

Ulcers Going to Dogs

CHICAGO (UP)— If your dog has been off its feed lately, it may be that the pace of big city living is giving him ulcers, according to a Pennsylvania veterinarian.

Dr. William C. Glenney said the modern day dog is plagued with such ulcer-producing tensions as fear of traffic on city streets, doubts about food and relations with other dogs.

Glenney, owner of an animal hospital at Wynnewood, Pa., and president of the American Veterinary Radiology Society, discussed canine problems at the society's annual meeting Sunday.

He said the situations confronting the big city dog are a far cry from the placid life of the "Old Dog Tray" of literature.

Tray and others like him in days gone by, Glenney said, had only one worry — "to keep noble and ever faithful."

Tray's descendants frequently develop inferiority complexes trying to cope with urban living, he said.

For instance, Glenney continued, in order to prove that he is not afraid of the big dog next door who barks at him all the time, a dog may start chasing cars just to prove his courage.

The cars become larger beasts to the dog and their "bark is more resounding," he said.

Glenney also warned that the rough attention dogs get from the children of the house also leads to ulcerous tensions in the animal.

Trans-Atlantic Truck Service Is Inaugurated

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The world's first trans-Atlantic trucking service was inaugurated here today when truck-trailers loaded with French merchandise rolled off a ship.

The vehicles were carried from France across the Atlantic on the return leg of the maiden voyage of the "TMT Carib Queen," the world's largest truck trailership.

The ship currently is under a three month charter to the Military Sea Transportation Service ferrying loaded trailers and vehicles for Army supply installations aboard.

Regular commercial service of truck trailers is expected to begin after the military charter has been completed. The ship is able to accommodate some 92 truck trailers, 97 automobiles and 500 tons of bulk cargo.

The trucks were loaded with French Bordeaux wines, Champagnes, cognacs, tires, machine parts and Swiss cheese at various French cities and rolled aboard the ship at St. Nazaire.

The vehicles can be loaded aboard the ship both from the stern and the side. At the stern, two huge doors swing downward to become ramps. Loading is done from the side with portable ramps and the whole operation can be completed in approximately four hours.

Scientist Solves Two Mysteries of Island

By ROBERT MUSEL

OVER THE NORTH POLE (UP) — Thor Heyerdahl, the Norwegian explorer, said today he had solved the two great archeological mysteries of Easter Island in a scientific adventure he described as even more fascinating than his famous Kon-Tiki expedition.

The handsome 43-year-old scientist had a strange story to tell—and he told it in a strange place—10,000 feet over the North Pole in what must have been the first interview ever given over the top of the world.

Below us as we spoke in the first regularly scheduled airliner to cross the pole on the new Scandivanian Airlines short-cut route between Europe and Tokyo we could see vast wastes of snow in the twilight glow of the Arctic night.

50 Ton Figures

But it was of the warm Pacific that Heyerdahl was speaking. He said he was completing a book and editing a color film of his year-long stay on Easter Island, the loneliest inhabited spot on earth. It is a Chilean possession 2,000 miles west of the north coast of Chile, the nearest land. There is one regular ship a year, and the Polynesian natives squeeze out a living from poultry and farming.

The island was discovered in 1722 by a Dutch admiral looking for an entirely different island and even then the first white men were bored and puzzled by the great petroglyphs or stone figures tumbled about the place. Some of these weighed 50 tons and had obviously been dragged long disances — but how this was done by the natives and their primitive equipment and what the monuments were intended to mean in the first place remained a puzzle over the centuries.

Relives Past

"I decided to put the native superstition about me to practical use. They had a head man they called the 'alcalde' or mayor," Heyerdahl said. One day I gathered a group of natives, appointed the alcalde to lead them and arbitrarily told them to take stone axes and carve and raise stone statues just like their ancestors.

"The most astonishing fact was that the alcade and the natives raised a 20-ton statue using only two logs and small stones. They rolled the big stone along on the logs then they raised it by literally building a wall under it with the small stones. They would shift it a few inches and slip in a stone and so on until it was six feet off the ground and then they slid it into a standing position.

"That showed us all we needed to know about how the ancient natives had solved the technical problem of the big statues."

But what did the carvings mean?

Heyerdahl said he was taken to secret burial caves and shown still unique carvings. This led to the revelation of the simple but tenaciously held secret of what the great statues meant. They are ancestral figures representing early chiefs. After death their spirits lived on in stone.

Aliquippa Woman Is Free to Stay in U. S.

PITTSBURGH (UP)—An Aliquippa woman was free today to apply for American citizenship after winning an appeal from a deportation order.

The Bureau of Naturalization and Immigration in Washington reversed an order directing that Mrs. Marietoulla Petras be returned to Greece.

Attorney George Shorall, of Pittsburgh, who represented Mrs. Petras, said he was "elated" by the Washington order. He notified his client who murmured her gratitude in Greek.

Mrs. Petras was deported in 1953 after immigration officers learned she had married Manuel George, her first cousin who lived in Rochester, Pa. The marriage was annulled because Pennsylvania laws forbid marriage between first cousins.

Two days later before she returned to Greece, she married George Petras, a Greek immigrant who was a naturalized citizen.

Mrs. Petras filed application with the American consul in Greece for re-entry into the U. S. on the grounds that her husband was an American citizen.

Pittsburgh immigration officials, after a long hearing, ordered Mrs. Petras deported for the second time because she allegedly falsified her application.

Federal authorities here contended she had failed to state on her application filed in Athens that she had been deported previously. It was also charged the couple had never lived together as man and wife.

However, Shorall proved that the husband had answered the question of deportation truthfully in his petition. Shorall said the wife had placed a dash after the question but that she did not falsify.

Shorall also proved that the couple had lived together in Aliquippa as man and wife.

Urges American Aid to Help Free Poland

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (UP) — Charles J. Rozmarek, president of the Polish American Congress, said Sunday that if Poland were to receive American economic aid it "would be encouraged to achieve a still greater degree of independence from Moscow."

Speaking at a golden jubilee celebration of the Polish National Alliance here, Rozmarek said "any nation that tries to wrest itself from Moscow control deserves American economic help."

He suggested that American economic and technical aid be controlled by an inspection system to assure none would be diverted to the Soviet Union or its satellites.

"The present government of Poland is Communist, even though it gained a small measure of independence from the Kremlin tyrants," Rozmarek said. "The Polish nation is fervently anti-Communist."

"The indomitable spirit of the Polish people in resisting Russian domination gives the world hope that international Communism carries within itself the seeds of self-destruction," he added.

The congress claims to represent seven-million Americans of Polish ancestry.

Strong Candidate For D.A. Needed

THE CAUSE of good government in Westmoreland County is going to be ill served in this year's elections if the Republicans do not come up with at least one well qualified candidate for District Attorney.

This may seem to some readers an odd statement for a newspaper to make three months in advance of the primary elections. But we doubt that it will seem odd to those who know anything of the political life of Westmoreland County in the past 20 years.

Throughout this period Westmoreland County has been governed to a large extent by a political machine which has operated and still operates in the name of the Democratic party. And this period has also witnessed a breakdown of some of the fundamental requirements of good government, particularly law enforcement.

The power of this political machine and the cause of this breakdown of civic decency have their roots in the same place — the District Attorney's office. The laxity of the individuals who have occupied this post in the last 20 years has been responsible for the depradations of known criminal racketeers. Gambling and vice have operated openly in many parts of the county with no interference from the District Attorney's office.

These same criminals have gone into politics and, in combination with crooked politicians, have actually stuffed ballot boxes, falsified the counting of our votes and otherwise robbed the people of the most precious thing they possess.

These conditions are well known. They have, in fact, been proven in the courts.

But there is going to be no lasting change in these conditions until there is a change in the control of the District Attorney's office.

IT IS UNREALISTIC, we believe, to look to the Democratic party for such a change. The political machine responsible for the conditions we mention is about to try to "promote" the present District Attorney, Mr. Sculco, as it "promoted" his immediate predecessors, to the common pleas bench. And we can be sure that the bosses of the machine will attempt to replace Mr. Sculco with somebody equally ineffective.

This is why we say that the only hope for a real change probably lies in the nomination and election of a good Republican candidate. And we trust at least one such man will be stepping forward soon.

Two judges also are to be elected this year. And it is understandable that lawyers tend to be preoccupied by these positions. We think they are tremendously important, too.

But in our opinion, even if the voters should succeed in electing one or more able judges and if the District Attorney's office remains in the control of the disreputable machine, Westmoreland County still will have no chance of recovering its good name.

WE WOULD, of course, like to see both parties nominate strong, honest, independent candidates for District Attorney, men to whom the oath of ofice would be a sacred covenant with the people and who would let nothing prevent the full performance of the duties of the office.

But candor compels us to say that there is little likelihood of the Democratic bosses allowing such a man to be nominated. Which means that the Republicans must come up with a candidate whom self-respecting voters of both parties can support with enthusiasm in November. This is the most important poltical need in Westmoreland County at this time.

A Real Guard

THE ADVOCATES of at least six months of basic training for National Guard recruits seem to us to be winning the argument with those Guard officers who have been maintaining that 11 weeks is enough.

These latter have held that to require six months of training would make it harder to get recruits. And they may be right about that — for a time at least.

But if the Guard is part of our first line of defense, whom are we kidding when we put a poorly trained man in that line? No matter how many names may appear on the Guard's rosters, it is not going to be an effective fighting force unless the men who answer to those names when an emergency occurs are soldiers, trained and ready for action.

This is the kind of National Guard Secretary of Defense Wilson and his military advisers are working for. And it is the kind of Guard the nation must have.

Those Guard officers who have been insisting on less than adequate training in order to make their strength reports look good are wide of the mark, in our opinion. It may take a little longer to build the right kind of National Guard, but any other kind would be a treacherous delusion.

From Washington—

Truman and Ike Aren't Speaking

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

One of the most regrettable and hurtful aspects of American public life today is the strained relationship — to put it mildly — between President Eisenhower and former President Truman.

Mr. Drummond

The blunt fact is that Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Truman are not on speaking terms.

They have not seen each other, spoken to each other or allowed themselves to be in the same room with each other since the Inauguration on Jan. 20, 1953. Their meeting then was compulsory.

They have been in the same city more than once and have never arranged to see one another. Most correspondents believe they arranged not to see one another.

Each is deeply offended in the other.

Each is profoundly and sincerely convinced that the other is at fault.

Presidency Hurt

All of this wouldn't matter much if only Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Truman were concerned. Probably many of us do not speak to somebody. But when the President of the United States does not speak to a former President of the United States, this cannot fail in some measure to hurt the presidency, to take something of quality from American political life and, at times, to handicap the government.

It seems to me that this strained relationship between President and ex-President is seriously disserving the nation right at this moment. On March 10 the Greek and Turkish governments are commemorating the tenth anniversary of the "Truman Doctrine" which brought economic and military aid to these two countries in time to save them from Communist domination. These governments very much wanted to have the former President of the United States as their honor guest to celebrate the occasion. Secretary Dulles passed on the invitation and Mr. Truman found himself previously engaged.

Under all the circumstances I cannot escape the feeling that if the invitation had been handled differently Mr. Truman would not have found that it had arrived too late, that is, if President Eisenhower had personally conveyed the invitation and had appointed the former President as an official representative of the United States.

As it is, a valuable opportunity to further American good will is dissipated.

What Caused It?

What has brought this all about — a situation truly unworthy of these two very grand human beings?

Only the participants can really say why they feel as they do but I can cite the overt incidents which produced the breach.

In the 1952 campaign Mr. Eisenhower was stunned by the vitriolic political attacks which President Truman launched against him, implying at one point even that he was pro-Nazi in his sentiments. Such "campaign oratory" was absolutely incomprehensible to Mr. Eisenhower and at the time he remarked: "Why, he twice invited me to run for the Presidency, and this is what he says!

Then there was Mr. Truman's sarcastic telegram to Mr. Eisenhower offering him the President's plane for the campaign-promised trip to Korea — "If you still want to go."

Truman Snubbed

On the other side: when President Eisenhower was in Kansas City early in his first term, Mr. Truman phoned to the temporary "White House" at the Muehlebach Hotel to say that he would like to call to pay his respects. Perhaps the message never got to Mr. Eisenhower, but the call was not returned and no appointment was given to the former President. Mr. Truman has also never been invited to the White House when he has been in Washington. He has remarked to friends: "I am the most snubbed former President in American history."

I know only one American of equal stature who is a close and cordial friend of both Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Truman. He is former President Herbert Hoover whom Mr. Truman brought back into active government service after Franklin Roosevelt had snubbed him for 12 years.

Mr. Hoover, why don't you invite your two friends to dinner so they can wash away their differences and start fresh?

Merry-Go-Round—

Ike Worried by Crisis

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Inside fact about the President's hurried return from Thomasville to face the Israeli crisis was that assistant President Sherman Adams warned him revolt was brewing in Congress.

Mr. Pearson

Adams called the President to say that a resolution might sail through both houses of Congress condemning sanctions against Israel unless Ike came back to take personal charge of the explosive situation. Such a resolution not only would tie the administration's hands before the United Nations but might endanger the entire legislative program in Congress.

At first, the President wanted the 27 congressional leaders to fly to Thomasville to see him. But whe Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas replied, "The American people are under the impression that Washington is still the capital of the United States," he flew back to Washington.

Arriving at the White House, Ike blew off steam privately against Israel and what he called the "Jewish lobby." He gave no hint of this later as he sat with congressional leaders. He seemed, however, unusually discouraged and depressed.

Danger from Russia

The President opened the conference by reading a prepared statement reviewing the Israeli situation to date. He coughed occasionally, apologized for laryngitis and said: "Foster had better talk."

John Foster Dulles then outlined the situation pretty much as the press had reported it.

"I've tried, but I am frank to admit that it is difficult to find words to adequately deal with the situation wherein a little nation of the free world, like Israel, whom we all want to protect, is at the same time guilty of aggression into the territory of another," admitted Dulles.

"There is nothing the United States can do to stop sanctions against Israel," Dulles concluded. The only course, he thought, was for Israel to withdraw from the Gaza Strip and Aqaba Gulf. Unless Israel withdraws quickly, Dulles warned, the situation will worsen.

"A flicker could start and develop into a flame. If Israel doesn't withdraw, guerilla warfare might break out and you can't tell where it would stop." He added that even the Soviet Union might be brought into the fighting.

After Dulles had talked for about 20 minutes, a senator broke in: "Isn't it true that what you have just said is a polite way of saying the administration will support United Nations action of sanctions against Israel?"

"The United States will not seek sanctions," Dulles replied. "But it is difficult to see how sanctions can be avoided."

Dulles on Spot

"Mr. Secretary," broke in Senator Johnson of Texas, "I don't think you were very responsive to that question." Then Lyndon repeated the question.

"Our policy," retorted Dulles, "is to support the United Nations."

"That still doesn't answer the question," protested Johnson. Again he repeated it.

"If the majority of the United Nations believe sanctions should be imposed we will support that position," Dulles finally declared.

"Doesn't that place us in the role of supporting a double standard?" asked Johnson, referring to the fact that we are not bringing sanctions against Russia for the Hungarian bloodbath.

The Secretary of State said he didn't believe that was the case.

"The question of sanctions was never raised," he said, "in the Hungarian matter."

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge then took over for about half an hour, discussing the maneuvering and manipulating that has been going on inside the United Nations. For the most part, it was a technical discussion.

"I have delayed action on a UN resolution as long as I can to give the United States time to bring about a voluntary withdrawal of Israeli troops from the Gaza and Aqaba Gulf areas," said Lodge, "but I cannot delay it much longer. Soon the cease-fire agreement will run out and then anything may happen. Nasser might make trouble, probably with assistance from Russia."

After Lodge finished, Senator Fulbright of Arkansas asked pointblank: "What would the administration want members of Congress to do?"

Ike replied that he would like Congress to support the administration's demand that Israel withdraw and also support subsequent action in the United Nations. Dulles suggested the leaders attending the meeting might work up a statement and issue it on leaving the White House showing that Congress is behind the administration.

Fulbright Proposes

At this point Fulbright suggested a Senate resolution requesting that Israel withdraw, but simultaneously pledging American support of Israel's interests. This, he said, might reassure Israel that the United States would protect her interests.

The President brightened visibly. He sat up and listened as if something had come along to break the impasse.

But Speaker Sam Rayburn promptly torpedoed his hopes.

"I can tell you right now," he said, "You'd never get it through the House. It's out of the question. The House is a direct action body, but you'd get no action on that. Even if we had the time, I would oppose it."

"The Senate is not a direct action body," interposed Senate leader Johnson. "We'd debate that a long time."

The President leaned back, obviously disappointed.

Rep. John Vorys (R., Ohio) said he thought Dulles's idea of a statement by the congressional leaders was the best approach. Senator Wiley (R., Wis.) asked Dulles what kind of statement he had in mind. Dulles suggested it be written along the lines of the President's week-end statement.

The session lasted for about two and a half hours, so long that all the highlights can't be reported in one column. At the very end, Senator Russell of Georgia said: "Mr. President, we can be here all day and still not get anywhere."

Then, looking straight at Ike, he said: "Nobody can speak for the country but you, Mr. President."

In a tired but not irritated voice, Ike replied: "I am willing to take the responsibility." He turned to Jim Hagerty and asked him to see about arranging for radio-TV time.

Holding Hem Line Is Up and Down Job

By MARGARET LATROBE

Christian Dior celebrates his 10th anniversary since the New Look this year, and what a decade of ups and downs it's been!

The New Look lingered only until enough people gave it a second look, a fact which must have upset Monsieur's equilibrium. Since then he hasn't been able to make up his mind, and stuck to a decision. Hems up, hems down? Knee-deep, half mast, or trailing the floor? He says something, then retracts. Indian-giver!

Mrs. Latrobe

I say Dior should think it out, slowly, carefully — then tell us once and for all. Maybe those fashion editors unsettle him by jumping into print with a misquote before the poor chap can finish his sentence. Out comes a collection with the skirt lengths four inches awry, depending on where it stopped last season. And by the time we've taken up or let down our flaps, Monsieur is off on another tailor's tack.

"Mais non, not s-o-o short," says he. And out comes another collection backing up his revised opinion — and us to the wall. By the time we've put a row of mink, coonskin or whatever "findings" you find in the sewing kit, on the frustrated skirt hem — here we go again.

"Mais oui," says he. "Tres longer. Longer, longer!" What can we do now? Add more mink? There's a limit to everything. This up-and-down creation gets made into a tunic to be worn over one of those adorable crinoline sheaths (I think they call them).

"No more," quoth Dior. He didn't mean it. We've got it all wrong. Off with the mind band. Cut up the sheath and make a hat. What's wrong with the knees, hm? Bit knobby, perhaps, but if Christian Dior wants them showing, we should quibble?

Summer comes, when the feminine populace is apt to forget skirts altogether, and get itself arrested for wearing shorts on Main Street. Monsieur is basking on the Riviera, like as not, getting another statement ready for the press. Zee bosom — that's always good for a line and maybe a laugh. High or low? If high, fathers, husbands, brothers complain — but high they must be. If low, husbands, brothers, father complain — but they can go snap their pinking shears. Dior said . . .

1957 hems must be four inches lower. 'Pourquoi? Dior said so. Bring out that mink — which may by this time have had it, but being durable will outlast Dior's indecisions. We're back in style, temporarily.

Dior said hems up, hems down. What I say is, who asked him?

The Lighter Side—

Better Get Used to Counting in Googols

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—Don't look now, but when you get time take a peek and see if you don't agree that our little world is showing signs of getting too big for its britches.

"Big" is the fastest changing word in the language—has a new perspective day to day. Everything is swelling uncomfortably.

Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell in a recent speech predicted that in 25 years the U.S. gross national production would reach a trillion dollars a year. One trillion—that's a thousand billion buckaroos.

It may seem a rather strange and timid sum right now, but it's a nice fat, round figure that we might as well get used to. Try it on for size. It looks like this:

$1 000 000,000 000

Take the world population. It's increasing by leaps and high hurdles. In some Oriental countries, within a century, a person will be lucky to have a plot to stand on.

Human Race Increasing

Any old anthropologist will tell you that the human race, in addition to spurting in number, is growing bigger in body at a fast rate — just like the automobile, longer and more horsepower every year.

Take bacilli; take bombs, take hill-billy singers. More every day. The crux is for bigness. And that brings us to the googol.

The googol, according to the dictionary, was invented by the late Dr. Edward Kasner, American mathematician, and it's going to come in mighty handy before long, with the present rate of increase.

The dictionary says a googol is one followed by 100 zeros.

Go ahead. Look at it. It's looking right back at you:

10 000 000,000.000,000,
000 000,000.000,000,000,
000 000,000,000 000,000,
000 000,000.000,000 000,
000 000 000 000 000 000,
000 000,000,000.

Goggle - Eyed Googol

Don't fight it. You're going to be living with it. Goggle-eyed creature, ain't it? Dr. Kasner wrote it when trying to explain lofty figures to a child, and the kid said it looked like a googol, and so it does. But Dr. Kasner went further. He invented the googolplex, which is (again the dictionary) "the figure 1 followed by a googol of zeros."

This is a powerful figure, which if set down, would stretch way out to the edge of the universe. Please attend: 100 is the figure 1 followed by two zeros, but it represents 100 separate scratch marks. A googolplex is the figure 1 followed by as many zeros as there are scratch marks in a googol.

Macromegagoogolplex

In the bright new—big!—world, we're going to need words like that. The physics bomb boys already have megaton. We may get into megagoogolplex and macromegagoogolplex. And now you take women.

There already are 1,500,000 more women than men in this country and they're pulling away fast. The unabridged dictionary defines the word "gaggle" as "a flock of geese when on the water; hence, opprobriously, a company of women."

I propose that, if their tribe keeps increasing, the women of the world be known as a "googol-gaggle." And since we can't beat the ladies, might as well join 'em. God Bless 'em.

The Chiropractor And You

CORRECT CAUSE OF HEADACHES

BY

Dr. Frank F. Tucci

Headache is a term used to express pain in different parts of the head or perhaps one which affects the entire structure. Headaches offer themselves as symptoms rather than as original conditions. Those headaches due to abnormalities in the tissue within the skull are known as organic, while those which are due to abnormalities in other parts of the body are called functional.

These are many types of headaches. The gastric headaches, as a result of improper digestion, are common. So are those due to constipation. Then there are those due to sluggish liver, commonly known as "bilious" headaches, which are usually very servere. Headaches usually associated with impingement of nerves leading to the kidneys, or female organs are manifested by pain on top of and in the back of the skull. Pressure on nerves in the cervical region will result in nervous headaches.

Regardless of site of headaches, or whether they are due to other bodily incoordinations, there is a basic cause of headaches. The Chiropractor knows that the body will impinge a nerve and interfere with the normal flow of nerve energy from brain to all parts of the body. Reduced flow of energy results in body incoordination. The Chiropractor locates and adjusts the offending vertebra to correct position. With cause corrected the body functions return to normal and headaches disappear.

Correct the cause and you too can solve your headache problem.

Redstone Doesn't Take Chances

Redstone school officials weren't taking any chances the other night when the WPIAL held a meeting to consider the eligibility of a Hawk basketballer. They brought along an attorney to state their case! . . . Red Simpson, former Monessen Ozark baseball player, helped to promote a benefit basketball game in Brownsville the other night involving the Pitt gridders. All proceeds went toward the Richard Kadis Fund . . . Incidentally the Panther footballers have been playing benefit basketball games all over the place. They're a great group of boys who are doing much for Pitt's public relations.

Dick Schwendeman, an all-state basketball selection from Charleroi, is seeing lots of action with Penn State this season. Dick graduated from CHS in 1952, then spent a hitch in the Army before enrolling at State . . . The next tri-state college scheduled for "big time" basketball is Youngstown. After several seasons of preparation, the Penquins are about ready for a top-dawer schedule . . . Thomas Johnson, a Belle Vernon man, has been elected first vice president of the newly formed Tri-State Golf Course Owners Association. Johnson is affiliated with the nearby Willowbrook Golf Course.

Chester Has Another Strong Team

Chester High, an eastern cage power, has come up with another top notch team. The Clippers have lost only one game this season, bowing at Farrell, 65-52, in a holiday tournament assignment. They have a big team, with all starters well over six feet . . . By the way, Chester will have trouble in its own district from Yeadon. Other eastern champions at the moment look like Scranton, Reading, Coal Twp., and Allentown or Palmerton . . . In the west, the picture isn't quite as clear. Meadville, Bradford and Somerset usually wind up in the playoffs. Altoona and Johnstown will probably fight it out in District 6 while the WPIAL champion is anybody's guess.

At Coral Gables High in Florida, swimming is a big sport. The school publishes a slick brochure on the team prospects . . . By the way, the athletic director and football coach at Coral Gables is Nick Kotys, the former Monessen High athlete. There's quite a write-up on Nick in the brochure . . . The Hughes family in Monessen certainly has a basketball tradition. Bill and Ed have played with many district teams and they are well known in cage circles. Their dad, Ben, was also a cager of note. He played for the Buhl Club in Sharon as early as 1906, once matching dribbles with baseball immortal Hans Wagner.

$6,000 Already Raised for Kadis

Almost $6,000 has already been raised to help cover the medical bills of Richard Kadis, the injured Geneva College football player. Originally, sponsors of the Kadis Fund had hoped to raise $1,000. Now they've upped the goal to $20,000. Unhappily, medical expenses will reach $20,000 before long . . . The 32nd annual Tri-State Basketball Tournament in East Liverpool, Ohio, will be held April 1 through 13 . . . Bob Mullery, of St. Vincent High in Wilkes Barre, scored 92 points the other night to set a new record for the state. Previously the individual mark was held by the famed Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, who tossed in 90 points once for Overbrook High in Philadelphia.

Pennsylvania Second In Big League Players

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — It may come as something of a surprise today, but the Midwest turns out most of the major league ball players — at least as far as the American League is concerned.

A run-down of the major leaguers on the roster as the clubs begin training shows that California is the leading state in the matter of producing diamond stars with a total of 41 in the junior circuit. But sectionally the Mid-West leads with a total of 89.

The East is second with 72 against 69 for the once-dominant South. 51 for the West, 21 for the Southwest — and 19 from foreign soil.

Pennsylvania Is Second

Ranking by states after California are Pennsylvania with 25, New York with 24 native - born sons, Illinois with 23, Missouri 21, Michigan 17, Ohio and North Carolina each 11 and Texas 10 —while Cuba moves front and center with 13.

Probably no surprise is the fact that the New York Yankees hold the attendance mark in every park in the American League. Upholding their reputation, last year they drew an overall surplus of 553,042 over second place Cleveland and 611,845 more than the third place drawing Boston Red Sox.

However, the American League, playing to close to 8 million fans, still drew approximately 3 million less than in its record year of 1948.

You Wonder Why

Looking through the American League Red Book you wonder how some the Boston Red Sox blew the pennant. They crashed through in the most extra inning games, winning 12 against nine defeats in that department, while the Yanks did no better than sixth there with a 6-6 mark. And, in the matter of one-run triumphs, the Bosox had a 27-20 record while again the Yanks were no better than sixth with an 18-19 performance.

If Ted Williams is worried about his batting eye, he shouldn't.

Any ball player will tell you it's tougher hitting at night time than it is under the sun So what happened in 1956? Well, the wild and wooly Williams led the league in arc-light hitting with a .382 average, crowded only by Yankee Moose Skowron's .371.

Mickey Mantle? He was no better than 13th at a mere .316.

Cro-Ams, Undergrads Win

Cop Tilts In Benefit Cage Show

Coach Paul Kunsa's unbeaten Cro-Ams easily toppled Viaduct, 70-44, on Saturday in the first game of their best-of-three series to decide the 1957 City League champion.

The contest was staged at the MHS gym as part of a benefit triple-header card. In other tussles, the MHS Undergrads defeated the MHS Seniors, 46-38, and the Movie Club nipped the MHS Faculty, 30-28.

The Cro-Ams trailed only during the early moments against Viaduct. They lagged 6-0 at the outset, but came on fast to earn a 17-12 lead by the end of the first frame. At intermission, the Cro-Ams were way ahead, 37-20.

Three players shared in the Cro-Am point-making Tony Crisi tallied 16, Sam Dominico 15, and Bob Petty 12

Mesher Scores 21

For Viaduct, John Mesner came through with 21.

The second game in the series will be played Friday.

The Undergrads simply wore down the Seniors to win their game

The Seniors led most of the way. It wasn't until three minutes remained that Joe Kurey drove in for a layup which put his Undergrads in front, 39-38.

The Undergrads were coached by Frank Janosik and Tony Caterino, while John Dacko piloted the Seniors who had to fill out their lineup with several footballers.

Kurey paced the Undergrads with 16 points while Dick DiBiaso chipped in with 11.

For the Seniors, John Bogovich had 12 while Carl Crawley and Maurice Mathieu had ten each

Faculty Looks Good

The Faculty gave a surprisingly good account of themselves in a "comedy" game with the Movie Club.

As a matter of fact, it took an overtime to decide it. Robert Burns tied it up for the Movie Club at 28-28 in regulation time while Maurice Mathieu tallied it with just three seconds to go in the overtime to win it.

Joe Gladys paced the Teachers with ten points. Bob Mandarino, Ron Cipriani and Steve Harbody all had six tallies for the winners.

The triple-header was promoted by the Movie Club. All proceeds from the nice turnout will be used to purchase jackets for senior athletes at Monessen High.

This is Showdown Week Among Colleges

By JOHN GRIFFIN

Push all those blue chips to the center of the table—this is "showdown week" in college basketball for as many as eight major conference titles and maybe the national scoring championship, too.

Kentucky and Texas Western can open the hand by clinching league crowns tonight and, with the, berths in the NCAA tournament.

Before the week is out, champions may also be decided in the Big Ten, Pacific Coast Conference, Missouri Valley, Skyline, and California Basketball Assn. Each of these carries an automatic bid to the big NCAA carnival.

'Cats Can Clinch

Kentucky, the nation's No. 3 team, can wrap up its 12th Southeastern Conference title in the last 14 years tonight by whipping Auburn at home. The Wildcats already have clinched at least a tie for the crown with two games to go.

Texas Western can clinch the Border Conference crown by winning its final league game tonight at home against New Mexico A&M. A loss would give Hardin-simmons a chance to tie for the title by beating the same foe on Friday.

Should both favorites win, they will swell the field for the NCAA tourney to six teams. Connecticut and Canisius were already in when Southern Methodist joined up by clinching its third straight Southwest Conference title Saturday night and Idaho State clinched the Rocky Mountain Conference bid.

As for that pesky scoring race, three of the top five contenders finish their season this week. Here's how they stand:

Player & Team	Pts.	Avg.	GL
Joe Gibbon, Miss.	605	30 3	1
Grady Wallace, S.Car.	723	30.13	2
W. Chamberlain, Kan.	584	29.2	3
Elgin Baylor, Seattle	641	29.13	2
Chet Forte, Columbia	579	28 95	4

Gibbon, Wallace, and Baylor all finish this week, except for tourney games.

Saturday night play was marked by three upsets of high-ranked teams and by Gibbon's move to the No. 1 scoring spot.

Bradley (ranked No 5) was beaten by 20th-ranked St. Louis, 73-66, and lost first place in the Missouri Valley Conference. Louisville (No. 6) was tumbled by Dayton, 50-48, another thriller in their always-close series. Iowa State (No. 10) had its Big Seven hopes just about wiped out by Kansas State, 86-77.

Gibbon fired 46 points for Mississippi in an 83-76 victory over Louisiana State to pass Wallace, who ad "only" 43 in South Carolina's 94-81 loss to Duke Chamberlain had 30 in Kansas' 87-60 win over Nebraska. And idle Baylor moved to fourth ahead of Forte, who scored only 23 in Columbia's 82-64 win over Brown.

Foreign Netter Wins U. S. Indoor Crown Again

NEW YORK (UP) — Another sour note was struck in American tennis today when the U. S. National Indoors Tennis crown went out of the country for the third time in the last four years.

Mustachioed Kurt Nielsen of Denmark, who had been seeded fourth, emerged as the surprise winner of the 1957 indoor crown Sunday when he upset third-seeded Herb Flam, U.S. Davis Cupper from Beverly Hills, Calif., 4-6, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4.

He succeeds Ulf Schmidt of Sweden as the U.S. indoor king. Sven Davidson of Sweden won the title in 1954 and only Tony Trabert's U.S. victory in 1955 breaks what would be a four - year foreign rule.

Youth was served in another upset in the final round of doubles when Barry Mackay of Dayton, Ohio, and Grant Golden of Wilmette, Ill., beat Dick Savitt of South Orange, N.J., and U. S Davis Cup Captain Billy Talbert of New York for the title, 36, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Morri Adelberg of New York won the National Senior singles title, defeating Dr. Reginald Weir of New York, 9-7, 10-8. Phil Hanna of New York and Berkeley Bell of Cresskill, N.J., won th Seniors doubles over Dr. Irving Bricket and Edgar B. Ney, both of New York, 6-2, 6-4.

Gavilan Meets Martinez Tuesday

NEWARK, N.J., (UP)—Former champion Kid Gavilan and welterweight contender Vince Martinez are expected to draw a crowd of 9,000 and a gate of $30,000 on Tuesday night in their nontelevised 10-round bout at the Newark Armory.

Rickey Heads For Florida as Batting Teacher

PITTSBURGH (UP)— A delighted Branch Rickey takes off for Florida Tuesday to pinchhit for ailing George Sisler as batting instructor for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Rickey, 75, accepted an invitation by general manager Joe L. Brown and field manager Bobby Bragan to take over as batting instructor while Sisler is recovering from an abdominal operation.

"The invitation is a challenging one and will definitely become my main interest," Rickey, who now is chairman of the board of the Pirates organization, said. "I am delighted to accept the invitation."

Another surprise weekend development affecting the Pirates was the announcement by catcher Jack Shepard that he was quitting baseball permanently.

Shepard's statement came only a few hours after he told Brown by telephone that he would sign his 1957 contract upon arriving for spring training at Ft Myers.

Shepard, 24, was Pirate "Rookie of the Year" after the 1954 season and also was named on the All-Rookie Team that year by the Sporting News

Shepard said he was quitting baseball because his future in the game was too uncertain. Brown said he told Shepard he felt he had "as good a chance as any catcher on our team."

Duquesne University is host to St. Bonaventure at the Pitt Field House in Pittsburgh tonight for a basketball game the Dukes have to win to keep their post-season tournament hopes alive.

A loss would kill the Dukes' chances for a bid to the National Invitational Tournament, in which St. Bonaventure already is entered. St. Bonaventure defeated Duquesne, 79-63, at Buffalo last months.

The Duquesne game is the only college game in Western Pennsylvania tonight. Some schools will be ending their season schedules this week.

In a Sunday game, St. Vincent College defeated Gannon, of Erie, 80-56, on the winners' court. Jack Kalbfus, with 23 points, paced St. Vincent to its 12th victory against eight losses.

Greaves Favored Over Eubanks

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Middleweight Wilf Greaves was favored at 7-5 today to defeat welterweight Johnny Eubanks in a 10-round bout at the Enright Theater tonight.

Greaves, who must not exceed 160 pounds, was expected to weigh in at 158. Eubanks, who normally weighs about 145 pounds, must carry 150 pounds at the noon weigh-in.

Promoter Ben Anolik said the advance ticket sale was $4,000 as of Sunday night. A sellout of the 3,800 seats in the theater would bring in $12,000.

Junior High Fives Clash Tonight at Greyhound Floor

Vernon and Rostraver Junior High basketball teams will decide the Section 3 championship tonight at the MHS gym beginning at 8 p. m.

The two teams finished the regular season with identical 8-2 league charts.

Each school holds a win over the other. Vernon turned back the Little Leps, 35-33, while Rostraver won at home by a 36-25 count.

Vernon's other league loss was at Carroll Twp. by a 39-37 score. The Little Leps stumbled at Marion, 41-40, for their second setback.

Comparative league scores would seem to indicate a slight edge for Coach George Estok's Rostraver boys. They have run up the larger scores in most cases.

No Newcomers

However the Vernon Puppies are hardly newcomers to title play. They usually wind up near the top of the heap, so they don't figure to crack under tonight's pressure

Vernon, coached by Ken Clark, will probably start with Dick Caputo, Ron Feher, Lou Comadena, Howie Lippincott and Bill Beggs.

That's the quint which has carried the Puppies through to a brilliant overall 14-2 record for the season.

Rostraver will counter with Chuck Ahlborn, Jack Pierce, Willie Ross, Chuck Zolak and Harry Fields. Those boys have compiled a 13-5 record for the season. However their non-league opposition was much tougher than Vernon's.

Height Edge

Rostraver will carry a decided height advantage into the game However the Puppies are faster and that may be an important factor at the big MHS gym.

The winning team tonight will succeed Fallowfield as the Section 3 champion.

Charleroi Five Debuts March 6

Cougars Will Open Tourney Bid Against Derry Twp. Basketballers

Charleroi High's Section 5 basketball champions will not begin their WPIAL tournament bid until a week from this Wednesday.

The Cougars will debut at the Pitt Field House against Derry Twp., Section 10 kingpin.

That was decided on Saturday when the WPIAL Basketball Committee met in Pittsburgh to draw up the tournament schedule. As expected, unbeaten McKeesport and Sharon drew seeded spots.

If Charleroi gets by Derry — as everyone expects — the Cougars will advance to a quarterfinal game on March 11 against the Washington-Mt. Lebanon winner. Those two teams will tangle this Friday to settle the Section 4 crown.

Headed for Sharon

A win for Charleroi in the quarter-finals will probably set up a semi-final meeting with Sharon. The unbeaten Bengals need only to whip lightly-regarded Scott High to reach Charleroi.

In Class B, local interest will center on the Section 17 champion. As matters stand now, that race is very much undecided.

Irwin and Perryopolis will meet Tuesday at Connellsville to begin unraveling the mess. The winner will take on West Newton on Saturday at the same site.

Starts Tomorrow

The 49th WPIAL tournament will begin tomorrow with a doubleheader in Pittsburgh.

Sectional playoffs of deadlocked races also begin Tuesday night.

In opening tournament Class A action, Monaca, Section 8, plays Baldwin, Section 13, in the first game of a twin bill at the Pitt Field House. Ford City, Section 1, plays Restone, Section 11, in the nightcap.

A playoff in Section 12, Class A, will bring together Tarentum and Freeport. The game will be played at Arnold.

Irwin and Perryopolis will meet at Connellsville in a playoff of a triple tie in Section 17, Class B. The winner will play West Newton for the sectional title.

A new champion is assured in each class since last year's titlists have been eliminated. Farrell, Section 3, was knocked out by Sharon and East Pittsburgh, Section 16, was ousted by Edgewood.

Lost Weekend For Hockey Teams

By UNITED PRESS

It was a "lost weekend for all three of the National Hockey League's top teams, which blew opportunities to make significant gains.

The Detroit Red Wings could have taken an eight-point lead over the Montreal Canadiens, but suffered a 2-1 loss at the hands of the fifth-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Canadiens then failed to cut into the Red Wings' first-place margin when they dropped a 4-3 decision to the fourth-place New York Rangers.

And the third-place Boston Bruins were handed a 4-3 loss by the last-place Chicago Black Hawks.

Rochester Ties For 2nd Place

By UNITED PRESS

The Rochester Americans, who began the American Hockey League season like "duds," now are as explosive as a "Fourth of July firecracker."

The AHL's newest entry romped past Cleveland, 4-1, Sunday to tie the Barons for second place.

Rochester's fifth straight triumph, 10th in its last 14 games, shot the Americans within four slender points of league-leading Providence.

In other games, Buffalo paced by Bobby Hassard's two goals and an assist, smeared Hershey. Providence won a clutch game, beating Springfield 4-2 as Paul Larivee out of a severe slump, scored his third goal of the weekend.

Maglie Hopes to Win 15 Games For Brooklyn During Season

By FRED DOWN

Sal Maglie, as enthusiastic as rookies half his age, today set a goal of 15 victories that would make 1957 his best season in five years.

"My target is to win 15 games—if that's enough to help us win another pennant," said the 40-year-old hurler when he checked into the Brooklyn Dodgers' Vero Beach Fla., training camp. "I don't know if I can start for three more years, but I'm sure I can pitch."

Maglie, the hero of the Dodgers' stretch battle with the Milwaukee Braves and Cincinnati Redlegs, had a 13-5 record last season and hasn't reached the 15 - victory mark since 1952 when he had an 18-8 record with the New York Giants.

Braves Have Troubles

The Braves and Washington Senators, meanwhile, were running into trouble with some key pitchers.

Lew Burdette, the National League's earned run leader and a 19-game winner, Bob Buhl, who beat Brooklyn eight times, and relief pitcher Ernie Johnson all refused to agree to terms with the Braves.

At Orlando, Fla., Chuck Stobbs and the Washington Senators still were about $3,000 apart following another conference. Stobbs, who astounded everybody by winning 15 games for the Senators last season, now has Calvin Griffith dumbfounded because he wants about $19,900.

Don Larsen, the World Series perfect game hero, arrived unexpectedly at the New York Yankees' St. Petersburg, Fla., camp amid indications that he may sign for about $20,000. Larsen, who got $14,500 last season, had been offered $17,500 and was demanding $27,500.

Parnell Under Knife

On other training camp fronts: Manager Mike Higgins revealed that Mel Parnell, who last season, pitched the first no-hitter by a Boston Red Sox pitcher since 1923, underwent a "minor elbow operation" last month. Parnell is due in camp today and his training is not expected to be effected by the operation.

Jim Brosnan and Turk Lown threw extra hard Sunday as the Chicago Cub batterymen put in their fifth day of work in Mesa, Ariz.

General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Cleveland Indians dropped in on the Baltimore Orioles' camp at Scottsdale, Ariz., but he and Orioles' Manager Paul Richards said they did not talk about a deal.

At Clearwater, Fla., the Philadelphia Phillies' top minor league farmhands beat the St. Louis Cardinals star Farmhands, 5-1, behind the five-hit pitching of rookies Dallas Green, Don Cardwell and Gerry Kettle.

Baltimore Colts Sign Two Backs

BALTIMORE (UP) — Halfbacks Bill Bradshaw of Bowling Green University and Joe Guido of Youngstown College were signed today by the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League.

Williams Last Of .400 Hitters

NEW YORK (UP)—Ted Williams, who hit .406 in 1941, is the most recent of major league baseball's .400-hitters. Bill Terry's .401 in 1930 was the last time a National Leaguer has topped .400.

Gen. Duke Tops Flamingo Field

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)— Calumet Farm's Gen. Duke and Iron Leige will try to make it two in a row over the mighty Bold Ruler in next Saturday's $100,000-added Flamingo Stakes.

Gen. Duke, assisted by Iron Leige's fast early pace and a 14-pound pull in the weights, upset Bold Ruler in the Everglades, but next Saturday will be carrying equal weight of 122 pounds.

Calumet still is fresh from the smashing victory scored Saturday by Bardstown, who led virtually all the way in the Widener Handicap to win by four and one-half lengths. Favored Summer Tan was fourth in the five-horse field.

In loving memory of our dear husband and uncle, Victor Massey, who died one year ago today, February 25, 1956.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you,
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true.
There is not a day, dear loved one
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by wife, Mrs. Augustine Massey and the Guibourdanche Family

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Frank J. Roucroft, who died six years ago, February 24, 1951.
From this world of trouble and sorrow,
To the Land of Peace and Rest,
God has taken our beloved father
Where he has found eternal rest.
We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of him are always near,
We who loved him, sadly miss him
As it dawns another year.
Sadly missed by Wife and Children

Ministers Plan Pre-Easter Services at Local Churches

Plans were made for the pre-Easter Sunday evening services at a meeting of the Fayette City Ministerial Association Friday evening in the Church of Christ.

The first two services, March 10 and 17, will be held in the Church of Christ. John Bowers will preside and the Rev. D. Earl Daniel will speak at the March 31 meeting. These two services will be held in the Presbyterian Church with Mr. Daniel presiding.

The final two services will be held in the Methodist Church. Mr. Daniel will speak on April 7 and Mr. Bowers on April 14.

Also discussed was the Vacation Bible School. The date for the school was planned for the first two weeks of June, beginning the Monday following the closing of public schools.

Mr. Beveridge and Mr. Daniel will serve as deans and are asking that two teachers be assigned from each of the four participating churches. The teachers will be invited to attend the Ministerial meeting April 29 to discuss further plans for the school.

Attending the Friday evening meeting were ministers of all the participating churches, Mr. Bowers, Arthur Warner, Mr. Daniel and Mr. Beveridge, the president.

Johnstown Man's Skeleton Found After 28 Years

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (UP) — "Where I'm going nobody ever will find me," Carl Schmuck told neighbors the day he disappeared in September, 1929.

Sunday his skeleton was found in an abandoned coal mine that had been worked out more than 40 years ago.

His black felt hat, an old carbide lamp and portions of a plaid mackinaw were found near the skeleton.

Coroner Joseph J. Govekar said there was nothing to indicate how Schmuck died.

Schmuck, a bachelor, was 60 when he disappeared from his home at Martindale, 10 miles from here.

The skeleton was found by John Drinosky, who recently purchased the property and was inspecting the old mine to determine if any recoverable coal remained.

Your Health—

Be Sure to Tell Doctor If You Have an Ulcer

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

An ulcer is not a confidential matter. In fact, with so many businessmen and others suffering from ulcers these days, it has almost become a subject for everyday conversation.

When you consult a doctor for any trouble at all, certainly you should inform him immediately if you have, or think you have, an ulcer, even if that isn't what is bothering you.

If you plan to have any chest surgery done it's extremely important that your surgeon is aware of any ulcer you may have.

This is especially true in cases of pulmonary tuberculosis.

However, not many patients with pulmonary TB will also have a peptic ulcer, but there are some unfortunates who have both.

A recent study in England disclosed that 15 persons developed a complication of their peptic ulcers following operations for pulmonary tuberculosis.

A complication such as gastro-intestinal hemorrhage is a grave emergency. It's not always easy to control a bleeding ulcer.

Should a partial gastrectomy become necessary, the tubercular lung condition is likely to become worse.

In most cases, we can operate safely even if an ulcer is present if only we know about it beforehand. We can treat the ulcer adequately and operate on the lung efficiently and without undue danger.

This may be a rather drastic example of what can happen if you don't tell your doctor all about your physical condition when you ask him to help you.

Ginger Rogers Says She May 'Never' Retire

NEW YORK (UP)—Ginger Rogers says she "may never" retire. And at the rate this girl retains her youth, she probably will still be a leading lady long after old rockin' chair's got the rest of us.

Miss Rogers breezed into Manhattan for a few days to publicize her new motion picture, to sing and dance on a television show, and to talk with reporters. It was the third time in 10 years I'd interviewed her.

"Yu haven't changed," said I, mentally tabulating my crows' feet.

"For that, sweetie, we'll put a gold frame around you," said Miss Rogers, who has no crows' feet to count.

Actually, Ginger Rogers is hardly ancient, although the records show this year is her 30th anniversary in show business—27 years in the movies. She was a teen-ager in Fort Worth, Tex., when she won a Charleston dance contest which began her career.

Most biographies list her as 45. "I'm old as God," said the blonde-haired star.

She said she weighs only four pounds more than when she first started in the movies—"The four pounds didn't settle in any one spot fortunately . . I still can wear the costumes from my earliest pictures." Current weight, 115. Current waistline, 21 inches.

Apparently her active utdoor life is part of the secret of her youth, because she insisted "I don't give myself any special care. . .I never get the sleep I should. I'm like my mother, a born night owl."

But she's an expert tennis player, golfer, skier, skeet shooter, and fisherman.
